ABOUT OUR SERVICES

Popli Design Group's (PDG's) team of professional architects and designers have the expertise to design various project types, from new construction and renovations to maintenance and upgrades. Our architects have executed projects for a variety of clients and facilities, including institutional, manufacturing, industrial facilities, laboratories, hospitals, schools, sporting facilities, and office buildings at the federal, state, and local level. We are honored that our work has been recognized by professional associations.

Our team of skilled and innovative professionals understand the importance of sustainability, and integrate the newest technologies into the design process. PDG engages stakeholders and user groups throughout the duration of the project, so the design results in value creation to both the client and the design team. We work for our community, and our designs always reflect the needs of the surrounding environment.

Our design process analyzes programmatic criteria, tests design ideas, and generates consensus; the focus is kept on the project's goals, vision, budget, and schedule.
